Master of Arts Degree in History

The Master of Arts (M.A.) degree in History offers students the opportunity to pursue the advanced study of history. The program is designed to develop students' skills in historical analysis and to expand students' understanding of the practice of history. M.A. students acquire competency in critical theoretical understandings of change over time and a broad knowledge of a thematic or geographic area. Students demonstrate this competence by designing and completing coursework and historical research projects or theses based on primary source research integrated with relevant historiographical knowledge.

Program Admission Requirements

In addition to satisfying the University-wide admission requirements, competitive applicants should have:

1. 18 upper-division semester credit hours in history or courses with demonstrably significant historical content; or demonstration of equivalent experience.
2. A grade point average of 3.2 or better (on a 4.0 scale) in the last 60 hours of undergraduate education or a 3.2 in graduate work; and a grade point average of 3.2 or better in all History courses taken.

Applicants must submit:

1. An online application form.
2. Official transcripts from all institutions attended. All international transcripts must be recorded in English or officially translated to English.
3. A 500-word statement describing how an M.A. in History will advance personal and professional goals.
4. All applicants must submit one writing sample not to exceed 5,000 words. The writing sample should be one of the following:
   a. A research paper that utilizes primary sources
   b. An analytical paper that compares two or more scholarly resources
   c. A book review of a scholarly historical work that has influenced the applicant's decision to pursue a Master's degree in History.
5. Two letters of recommendation. It is strongly recommended that at least one of the letters be from a professor who can discuss and evaluate specifically your academic qualifications and potential for graduate study. (Candidates who are returning to graduate study more than five years after receiving the B.A. may consult with the Graduate Advisor of Record to provide appropriate letters.)

Applicants for admission as special graduate students should have completed at least 12 semester credit hours in history. Special graduate students may be limited in the courses they are permitted to take. Admission as a special graduate student does not ensure subsequent admission as a degree-seeking student. Consult UTSA Student Policies on regulations regarding "special graduate student" status.

Degree Requirements

The minimum number of semester credit hours required for this degree is 30. This is exclusive of coursework or other study required for admission.

Degree candidates must complete the following requirements:

A total of 6 semester credit hours of HIS 6983 can be applied toward the total 30 semester credit hours required for this degree. Students writing a thesis will complete HIS 6983 (6 hours) in accordance with University-wide requirements as stated in this catalog. Students must be enrolled in HIS 6983 during the semester in which they graduate.

D. 18 semester credit hours of elective courses, chosen in consultation with the student's advisor: 18

At least 6 hours must be outside the student's focus area; focus areas are United States History and World History.

Up to 6 hours of graduate-level courses outside the program may be taken with prior approval of the Graduate Advisor of Record.

Up to 6 hours of Independent Study hours may be taken with approval of instructor.

E. Students pursuing Sequence I must pass the comprehensive examinations. Students pursuing Sequence II are not required to take comprehensive examinations.

Total Credit Hours 30

Note: Students are encouraged to pursue languages or other formal competencies as appropriate to their needs.
History (HIS) Courses

HIS 5003. Introduction to History: Theories and Methods. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
This course provides students with an introduction to the discipline of history. The course considers how historians conceptualize and conduct the study of history by asking historical questions, critically analyzing primary and secondary works, conducting archival and library research (both traditional and electronic), and developing and critiquing sets of arguments. The course considers competing approaches to the study of historical processes and how historians’ categories of analysis change over time. (Students must enroll in this course in the first semester of their program.) Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48; DL01 $75.

HIS 5093. Designing a History Course. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
A comprehensive approach to constructing history survey courses for the college level. Topics may include a survey of current curriculum debates; course and syllabus design; selection of textbook and other readings; evaluation and grading; leading discussions; nontraditional instructional methods, including the use of new technologies; and lecture preparation and presentation. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5103. Public History. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
This graduate seminar will examine the work of public historians by exploring shared authority, contextualized learning, collaborative exhibits, and audience engagement. Students will learn to consider various stakeholders as they create physical and/or virtual museum exhibits. They will also learn about alternative-academic careers for public historians. Possible topics covered are decolonizing museums, digital history, documentary and media, and oral history. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.

HIS 5153. The Civil War and Reconstruction, 1850–1877. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
An examination of the political, social, and economic factors in the 1850s that led to the American Civil War, as well as a study of the military, diplomatic, and political consequences of the war and efforts to create a new union. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5163. History of the U.S. South. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
This course examines the social, political, cultural, and economic developments that shaped life in the southern United States in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Topics may include race relations; southern politics; the economic transformation of the region; and religious identities and faiths. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5193. The United States Since the Great Depression. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
An analysis of recent American history with emphasis on the role of the national government, U.S. involvement in global affairs, and the changing status of women and people of color. Topics may include the drives for social justice by women and minority groups, the evolution of the American economy and its social consequences, the rise of the national security state, the emergence of the welfare state, and the cultural impact of electronic mass media. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5233. Topics in the History of Slavery. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
Slavery has been a global force for centuries, and its impact in the periods and regions where it has flourished remains a central issue for writers and thinkers today. The chronological and geographical scopes may vary, but offerings might likely focus on the Atlantic World, or the Islamic World as well as slavery in the United States, or more broadly, the Americas. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5253. Mexican American History. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
Examines the history of Mexican Americans from colonial times to the present. It emphasizes the diverse nature of Mexican American society by exploring its class, gender, and regional divisions. The course may also explore relations between Mexican Americans and other ethnic groups. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5283. Race in United States History. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
This course explores the development of racial ideology from the Colonial Era to the present, paying particular attention to the context in which racial categories are constructed, maintained, and transgressed. Students will have the opportunity to survey foundational and recent historical scholarship that both advances and draws upon theoretical models of race. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5293. The American West. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
A broad historiographical overview focused on nineteenth and twentieth century westward expansion from the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 to the present. Zones of contact, the development of hybrid cultures, racial relations, the environment, and the role of the federal, state, and local governments in Western development are among the topics that may be covered in this course. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5323. The U.S.–Mexico Border. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
This course will examine social, economic, and political conditions shaping the character of the United States-Mexico border region. Using a transnational approach, students will have an opportunity to explore the history of the border as a bicultural region, and to examine issues relevant to the development of the border area. Topics of interest may include urbanization, industrialization, gender, trade, migration, security, and ecological problems. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5423. Colonial Mexico. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
A detailed examination of the Spanish conquest and colonization of Mexico from 1521 to Independence. Special attention is paid to the transformation of Indian society under Spanish rule, the development of the colonial economy, and the formation of an interrelated colonial elite. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5433. Modern Mexico. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
Examines the history of Mexico following independence from Spain in 1821. Consideration is given to the disintegration of the colonial system, nineteenth-century reforms, the Porfiriato, the Mexican Revolution, and their effects on contemporary Mexico. Students may have the opportunity to work in Mexico. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.

HIS 5483. Colonial Latin America. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
An examination of Spanish and Portuguese America from the first encounters between Europeans and Native Americans at the end of the fifteenth century to the independence movements of the early nineteenth century. Special attention is paid to the role of race, gender, and religion in colonial societies and political and economic trends across regions. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

HIS 5493. Topics in Caribbean History. (3-0) 3 Credit Hours.
The Caribbean was the first place of cross-cultural exchange between the Old and the New World, the region in which most of the colonial systems that later proliferated in the Americas were tested and where the first acts of resistance took place. This course explores the main historiographical discussions and histories of the broad Caribbean region or specific national accounts such as the British, Spanish, and French West Indies, Jamaica, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Barbados, and many others. The chronological scopes could focus on pre-colonial, colonial, or postcolonial times. May be repeated for credit when topics vary. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.
This course provides a critical overview of piracy and captivity in the early modern Mediterranean. Due to the changing dynamics of the Mediterranean in particular and the world in general, the early modern era represented one of the periods with the highest frequency of captivity, corsair, and privateering activities. The assigned materials and the class discussions will probe beyond popular and/or ideological representations in favor of a more nuanced historical understanding of the political and economic context of piracy and captivity, ransom practices, the experience of captives, and the social and cultural implications of these phenomena. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.

This course provides an overview of Chinese history since 1550, with particular attention to the major historiographical debates in recent scholarship. Topics may vary, and the latest ones include ethnic and cultural identities in modern China and themes in local and transnational history. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

This course provides students with an opportunity to learn about the cultures and histories of the Indian subcontinent. Particular attention will be paid to the major historiographical debates in recent scholarship. Topics will vary and may include India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal, Sri Lanka, and/or Bangladesh. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

What does it mean to write, research, analyze, and talk about the histories of sex and sexuality? This seminar explores historical and cultural interpretations of the history of sexuality. The course involves understanding how changes in society, the economy, the family, and politics have reshaped sexual values and behaviors, and the ways that individuals and groups have responded to these challenges. Topics may include the family, religion, race and sexuality, class, reproductive health, and transgender and queer studies. Geographical focus may vary with instructor. (This course may employ an explicitly comparative approach.) Course Fee: GL01 $90.

Analyzes the experiences of women in the United States from the colonial period to the present. Topics may include economic roles, legal issues, religion, culture, feminist movements, and family life. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.

Topics may include the experiences of people of Mexican, Cuban, Puerto Rican, Central American, and South American heritage in the United States, treating the historical relationship between this nation and the countries of origin and the interaction between these groups and mainstream society. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

Explores the history of metropolitan development in modern American history. The class addresses the many ways in which public policies have reshaped the built and lived landscapes of metropolitan America while probing the complex, often contentious relationships among residents of cities, suburbs, and rural areas. Course Fee: GL01 $90.

This course will explore the history of crisis and catastrophe from ancient to modern times by examining a selection of events, themes, and texts. We will examine the significant, yet often overlooked, role of disastrous events in the course of human history, and how understandings of disaster and crisis have changed over time. Course Fee: GL01 $90; STLF $18.48.

This course introduces students to major themes, works, and ideas in environmental history. Readings and discussions will examine the reciprocal influence between human activities and the natural world broadly construed to include climate, microorganisms, water, flora, fauna, landscapes, and ecosystems throughout history.
